Given the high risk of burnout present in healthcare today, the ability to envision and design a path toward a fulfilling career and life is vital for emerging leaders. Now more than ever, leaders in healthcare need a strong connection to the values and passions that motivate them, a clear vision of the career and life they want, and a personal strategy to drive toward that vision. In this immersive working session, you’ll walk away with a strategy map for your career and life.

In particular, you’ll:

- Connect with the purpose, values and life priorities that drive you
- Define your ambition and vision
- Explore how to build the identity and relationships needed to realize your ambitions
- Define actions you can take in the present in order to produce a rewarding future
