Tina serves as the Chief Operations Officer of Ambulatory Management Solutions (AMS), a patient-centered and non-acute focused management service organization.

Tina has 30 years’ experience in all aspects of healthcare planning and operations, working with consulting companies, single and large multi-group physician practices, and an ambulatory surgical facility. She has a proven track record of increasing volumes and revenues as well as designing workflows that incorporate technology to support patient programming and streamline daily operations.

As COO, Tina oversees the revenue cycle, payer contracting, physician credentialing, and marketing teams. She is also responsible for office-based operations in Texas and North Carolina. Tina’s philosophy on leadership centers around a positive work culture and continuous growth. Improving processes, as well as empowering and developing the team is the leadership style that has proven successful for her in getting quality results while maintaining a positive organizational culture. She has guided AMS through strategic planning, business development, marketing, and patient engagement initiatives. Tina firmly believes that harnessing technology and meeting the patient where they are is one of the keys to our future of healthcare delivery.
